Dhritrashtra had to Proclaim Yudhishthir, his nephew, as the prince to the throne of Hastinapur because of his seniority. Duryodhana became an enemy of this. Soon, the growing hate and love for the Pandavas made Dhritrashtra and Duryodhana burn with Jealousy. So Dhritrashtra told the Pandavas to go and stay in the beautiful city Varanasi for a year.

Duryodhana and his maternal uncle, Shakuni made a plan to kill the Pandavas during their stay in Varanasi. They sent Purochan, a minister in Dhritrashtra's court to build a palace of wax and other inflammable material for the Pandavas to live in. He was also ordered to set it on fire when the Pandavas were asleep. Vidur got scent of the plot and warned Yudhishthir about the danger that awaited him in Varanasi.
