Many people seem to have no ideals in life. They are like ships compasses, sailing to no definite ports and blown hither and thither by every change of mind. They live an aimless life and what they become is largely a matter of chance. Such people because they aim at nothing, achieve nothing. To make anything of life, we must have an ideal of some sort. A man striving to realize a definite ideal is like a steamship steaming by the compass to a known definition. It does not depend on the wind and wave; to have an ideal in life it is of the utmost importance that the ideal should be the right one.

Questions :

1. To what does the author compare aimless people?
2. Why do people without ideals achieve nothing?
3. What type of life do such people live
4. What must we have to make anything of life?
5. To what does the author compare a man without a definite ideal?
6. What type of ideal should we have?
7. Give a suitable title to the above paragraph.

Que.5 (B) Read the following paragraph and answer the question given below. (07)

A thief once formed a plan of stealing a valuable clock from the palace. He got in unnoticed and placing a ladder against the wall mounted it to fetch the clock down. Just at that moment, the king himself happened to come into the room. The thief, however, kept his head down and said coolly to the king, "I am afraid the ladder will slip". The king thought it must be one of the palace servants taking the clock down to be repaired, so he held the foot of the ladder tightly. The thief mounted down and went away in the presence of the king. Next morning the king was told that the clock was stolen from the palace.

Questions :

1. What did the thief plan?
2. What did the thief do at first to steal the king's clock?
3. Who came when the thief was taking a clock down?
4. How did the thief act when the king came into the room?
5. What did the king believe him to be?
6. What news did the king receive?
7. Give a suitable title to the passage.
